

Pavilion Working Party

Proposed draft consultation version 2

It is important that at this stage, the first step in involving the whole community in discussions is not rushed, but is done in an informed, realistic manner once there is enough information to share that may influence responses. Until there is a firm amount that the insurance will cover, and until we know what that money will allow us to do in terms of rebuilding, there is no point in receiving suggestions from residents, many of which will likely remain way beyond the realms of what is achievable. Likewise, until we know whether selling off the existing village hall is an option, there is little point in even remotely proposing the option of a combined village hall/pavilion on the recreation ground. We also should seek advice from Planning on any restrictions that may be in place.

The initial consultation therefore, should remain simple, obtaining the interests of residents, the potential for fundraising and the likely future use of any building, whether that be a simple replacement of what was already there, a larger and improved pavilion or a pavilion/village hall combined.

If SurveyMonkey is used, along with paper copies also available, it is necessary to keep questions to a minimum. SurveyMonkey charges for surveys longer than 10 questions. Respondents are also less likely to complete a lengthy survey.

Question 1

- a. When was the last time you used or accessed the pavilion? What was the reason?
- b. When was the last time you used or accessed the village hall? What was the reason?

Question 2

As a guide, before answering this question, it is important to consider the potential costs of each of the options. For example, South Wonston pavilion cost £570,000 a few years ago. A large building, incorporating a pavilion and village hall could cost anything up to £2 million. As a guide, the anticipated cost is around £2000 per square metre. A modular building could cost approximately £350,000.

Taking into consideration the financial implications of each model, what would you like to see replace the pavilion on the recreation ground:

- i. A basic building based on the footprint of the previous pavilion with facilities that meet all of the current legal requirements, including gender neutral changing facilities, and disabled access throughout
- ii. A pavilion with a small, open plan studio suitable for classes such as yoga, sports or exercise classes that could incorporate use of the MUGA
- iii. A combined pavilion offering sports facilities and village hall for community/social events
- iv. Something else (please provide further details in comments box)
